The Times are Different.

These words are often used to invalidate the past, to dispense with moral laws, and to indulge the desires.

Progress is generally identified with any change. But there are sad experiences when we find that a change in fundamental principles is anything but progress.

Of course, times are different. Even a short span in time marks many changes. Science moves along at a dizzy pace. We find it difficult to keep up with the many strange gadgets which are offered as “new and different”.

But what of Truth, of Justice, of Tolerance, of Integrity, of Love, of Moral Responsibility.

Years, decades and centuries cannot obscure that which is of far greater importance to man’s existence than all that may be called progress.

When these elements of character are strangers to the age, it is then the age which must make adjustments to make room for the unchangeable.
