MEMBERSHIP GROWTH

The life blood of any Order is, of course, a continuing intake of suitable candidates. All of us are urged to review their circle of Masonic friends with the aim of proposing worthy Royal Arch Companions for membership of this wonderful Christian Order. The Recorder will be only too happy to provide the necessary Application Form.

Don't Be Afraid Of Critics

Don't be afraid of critics, because the woods are full of them. They have never written a play or a great composition. Few of them have ever mastered a musical instrument or attained a place in the world of art. They have never carried the responsibility of a parent, the authority of a judge, or the obligation of one responsibility for the economic security of many.

Don't shy away from the critics, because most of them are merely whistling in the graveyard of their own uncertainty and indecision. They pick you to pieces because they want to distract attention from their own shortcomings, and if other critics turn on them, they are immediately in a panic.

Most critics are merely trying to hide their own inferiority complexes, and the sooner you realise the fact that the average critic is just an ordinary fault-finder, the sooner you are going to realise that his opinion isn't of much value anyway, nor is his displeasure of any lasting consequence.
